

JURYMEN HAVE EXCITING TIME

Engage In A Bitter Quarrel Over Indictment Against Banker O. J. Bailey.

MALFEASANCE OF OFFICE CHARGED

Chairman of The School Board Says The Only Blame He Attaches To Him Is His Confidence In Dougherty.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 12.—O. J. Bailey, chairman of the finance committee of the school board, president of the Dime Savings and Trust bank and one of the most prominent business men in Peoria, was arrested Thursday afternoon charged with malfeasance in office by the grand jury. This latest development in the Dougherty embezzlement scandal has created a sensation in this city.

Heartbroken over the wrecking of the Peoria National bank by Professor Newton C. Dougherty, its president, Calvin C. Lines, for fifty-one years bookkeeper and officer of the bank, died Thursday night at his home on Perry avenue.

The grand jury voted the indictment against Bailey late Thursday afternoon, the vote standing 16 to 7. There was a big fight in the grand jury room before the indictment was finally returned. George Schnebly, the man who led the fight against Dougherty, was trying to force the indictment against Bailey, claiming that he was criminally liable in the case. Henry Sloan, another member of the grand jury, was bitterly opposed to the indictment against Bailey, and the two men engaged in a bitter quarrel in the jury room, almost coming to blows before the matter was finally put to a vote and the indictment ordered prepared.

Fear Effect on Banks.

The fact that Bailey is president of the Dime Savings and Trust bank and a director and heavy stockholder in the Central bank has caused more uneasiness in the banking world, and fears that the public may be aroused are entertained.

It was announced that indictments would not be returned against any other members of the finance committee of the school board.

The members of the finance committee are Henry Triebel and Mayor Alton B. Tolson. Neither will any indictments be returned against any of the officials of the Peoria National bank.

Mr. Bailey says that he is guilty only of a "mistake" in trusting in Dougherty. He says the coming indictment of Bailey was taken to Dougherty in his cell at the county jail and he expressed surprise over the affair.

"Mr. Bailey is wholly free from anything which in any way reflects upon his character in connection with school board matters. The indictment seems to me entirely unjustified," said Mr. Dougherty.

School Board's Loss Grows.

Forty-three new indictments cover delinquencies showing a loss to the school board of $250,000 since Jan. 1, 1903. It is now expected the total loss to the board will mount up to $500,000 and possibly $750,000. It is expected that the bond will be increased to $200,000, and the attorneys say that no attempt will be made to give this bond. The trial of Dougherty will come off in November.

Oliver J. Bailey is president of the Dime Savings and Trust bank, a director of the Central National bank, trustee of the Bradley Polytechnic Institute, president of the Cottage Hospital association and Teachers' Training school, and on the board of trustees of the Young Men's Christian association. He has lived in Peoria for over twenty-five years and is the senior member of the firm of Baird and Bailey. During the past sixteen years he has been a prominent member of the school board, serving as chairman of the finance committee for the most of this time.

SECRETARY SHAW TO SPEAK TO BANKERS

Principal One on Program of Closing Day—How Officers Will Be Elected.
[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-McRAE.]
Washington, Oct. 12.—Today, the last of the convention of the National Bankers' Association, has an unusually interesting program, with Secretary of the Treasury, Shaw, as the chief speaker. Election of officers also takes place and the newly elected officers will be installed tonight, after which the session will adjourn.

Session Closes
The bankers closed their sessions today. Harvey D. Gould of Cleveland, a marine lawyer, spoke advocating the ship subsidy bill.

A government insurance of national bank deposits was proposed by C. P. Ellis of Erie, Pa. The scheme would be an annual contribution of each national bank to the fund to the order of the comptroller of currency. He says had every bank contributed one hundred dollars annually in the past five years, the depositors of every bank that failed in that period would have been paid in full and two million left in the fund. He declares such a fund would raise public confidence.

HEAVY FIRE LOSS WAS JUST AVERTED

Barns on the William Porter Farm Burned to the Ground at Noon Today.
Fire, which broke out in the stall of the horse-barn on Mrs. William Porter's farm, three miles west of the city, at noon today, completely destroyed the horse-barn, the big granary and the windmill, and but for the work of neighbors and a volunteer bucket brigade would have swept the handsome house also. Most of the farm machinery, the carriages and horses and stock were saved, but the loss of the grain will be heavy. The two structures burned are among the finest in this vicinity. Word was telephoned to neighbors as soon as the flames were discovered and Chief Klein was also notified. He secured permission of Mayor Hutchinson to take a chemical engine with ladders and was ready to start when a second message said the flames were under control.

The heaviest loser will be the tenant, Joseph Shindler, who lost his entire grain crop. The neighbors now report that they saw a man driving a break horse enter the barn about fifteen minutes before the fire broke out, but paid no attention to him, thinking he was going to pay a call. Shortly after he left the fire started. A search is being made for him in the direction of Footville.

CAMPAIGN COIN BACK TO FUND

New York Merchant Seeks Return Of Contributions Made To Politicians.

ASKS ATTORNEY GENERAL TO ACT

Pass Resolutions Declaring That The Money Belonging To The Policy Holders Has Been Diverted By The Officials.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-McRAE.]
New York, Oct. 12.—The Merchants' association of New York, through its board of directors, adopted resolutions calling upon the district attorney of New York county to ascertain whether or not an indictment can be found against the officers of life insurance companies who have contributed the funds of the companies to political campaign committees.

The resolutions in part are as follows:

"Whereas, in the judgment of this board the excuse offered for these payments violates every sound principle of business morality, and would justify the illegal diversion of public and private trust funds of every description; and,

"Whereas, the penal code provides, in substance, that any officer, director, trustee or manager of a corporation who intentionally appropriates, or causes to be appropriated, any of its funds to his own use or to that of any other person than the true owner or person entitled to the benefit thereof, steals such property and is guilty of larceny; and,

"Whereas, this board believes that the interests of the community demand that this misappropriation, if a crime, should be visited with adequate punishment; that law should be enforced irrespective of the station of the offender; and that nothing should be more operative as a check upon corrupt use of the money of corporations than conviction of the offender as a common thief; therefore,

"Resolved, That in the opinion of this board, prompt and energetic steps should be taken by the district attorney of the county of New York to ascertain whether an indictment cannot be found against the presidents of such companies and other officers concerned in said payments, and that it is the opinion of this board that the attorney general of the state should institute civil proceedings for the return of the said sums to the treasuries of the respective companies."

Wants the Money Refunded.

The Merchants' association also asks the attorney general to begin civil suit looking to the restitution of the money contributed to campaign committees by the presidents of the insurance companies.

District Attorney Jerome is asked to reconsider his determination not to ask for an extraordinary session of the grand jury to consider the insurance scandal at this time.

On behalf of Thomas J. O'Donnell of Denver and other Colorado policy holders of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, W. B. Crisp, a lawyer of this city, wrote to Attorney General Mayer of New York state, asking that he institute civil proceedings at once to compel the officers of the Mutual to make restitution of the sum of $92,500 which they admit has been contributed to political campaign committees in recent years.

Hyde to Tell Everything.

It is practically certain now that James Hazen Hyde will appear before the Armstrong legislative insurance commission as a witness. His friends have urged him all along to appear before the committee, and make a clean breast of everything questionable in the Equitable management under the old administration. Persons whose names surely will be brought into the scandal if Hyde pursues such a course have been exerting an influence on him to remain outside the committee's jurisdiction.

Agents of a New York insurance company have been leaving at the offices downtown artistic cards inscribed with these words: "Forget It."

PLAYS NOTRE DAME IN MILWAUKEE PARK

University Team Is To Meet the Catholic College Boys on the Gridiron.
[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-McRAE.]
Madison, Wis., Oct. 12.—Wisconsin meets the eleven from the University of Notre Dame at Milwaukee tomorrow in a game which will be demonstrative of the ability of the Badgers in the contest with Chicago at Madison a week hence. Reports have come of strength in the Catholic team and it is hardly possible that King can so disguise his game as to fail to give the Chicago coaches an accurate line on the Badgers. Captain Vanderboom will not appear in the game against Notre Dame, the backfield will be composed of Melchor at quarterback, Roseth at fullback, Clark at left halfback, and Findlay at right halfback. Wraetz and Fisher are likely to get a chance during the game. Findlay is announced to be in poor condition and will be relieved early. The game will be quite an event in Milwaukee, as it is the biggest gridiron contest the Cream City will have this year. The Badgers will go on a special train Saturday morning, accompanied by some 600 people, but not all will attend the game, as many go merely to take advantage of the excursion rates.

No attempt will be expected from the varsity at running up a high score, both on account of the desire to save the players from possible injury and also in order not to display the best things in the Badger grip before the Chicago coaches and leading stars who are expected to be on the field. However, the ability of the Irishmen from Notre Dame may compel the Badgers to strain themselves.

K. OF C. AT THE BANQUET BOARD

OVER A HUNDRED ASSEMBLED AT MYERS HOTEL

10 HONOR PATRON SAINT

Francis O'Shaughnessy's Remarkable Oration on Columbus and "The Discovery," Thrilled All Hearers.

In the absence of the Grand Knight, E. H. Ryan, presiding as toastmaster at a notable banquet given at Hotel Myers last evening in commemoration of the discovery of the new world and the landing of Christopher Columbus on the island of San Salvador, Oct. 12, 1492, welcomed the visiting brethren and clergy of the Knights of Columbus, who had come to do honor to their patron saint. Arrangements for the celebration, given under the auspices of Carroll Council No. 536, were made by a committee consisting of W. H. Dougherty, Harry Haggart, and Thomas L. Birmingham. The festive boards, snow-white and glittering with silver, formed three sides of a rectangle in the large dining hall and there was a broad band of blue silk and bearing candelabra capped with red shades, presenting in a very tasty design the colors of the order. Over one hundred guests were seated shortly before nine o'clock. Lake's orchestra played its opening overture and from that moment until after midnight all present gave over to the full enjoyment of the occasion.

The Visitors Present
Among the visitors present were: Rev. Carroll of Watertown, Rev. J. J. Collins of Fond du Lac, Rev. J. C. Martin of Edgerton, Rev. M. E. Downs of Whitewater, Attorney Francis O'Shaughnessy of Chicago, Judge A. J. Clarity, and District Deputy G. G. McCarthy of Freeport, J. C. Donnelly of Woodstock, John Brown of Rockford, Louis Schmidley and John J. Gahan of Evansville, John T. Gahan of Footville, John Joyce, Richard Curran, Dr. B. L. Cleary, M. H. Bratley, and Joseph Leary, all of Edgerton. The tempting menu was as follows:

An Eloquent Address
After the banquet was finished and the cigars had been lighted, Atty. E. H. Ryan extended a warm welcome to all present and then lapsing into his characteristic whimsical mood bade the jokesmiths be at ease and of good cheer as they were to be encouraged in any effort they might make to entertain. He then introduced Francis O'Shaughnessy of Chicago who was to speak on "The Discovery." The speaker had scarcely

THE ROOT OF THE MATTER.

He Cured Himself of Serious Stomach Troubles, by Getting Down to First Principles.

A man of large affairs, in one of our prominent eastern cities too close attention to business too little exercise and too many club dinners, finally began to pay nature's tax, levied in the form of chronic stomach trouble. The failure of his digestion brought about nervous irritability making it impossible to apply himself to his daily business and finally deranging the kidneys and heart.

In his own words he says: "I consulted one physician after another and each one seemed to understand my case, but all the same they each failed to bring about the return of my former digestion, appetite and vigor. For two years I went from pillar to post, from one sanitarium to another, I gave up smoking, I quit coffee and even renounced my daily glass or two of beer, without any marked improvement."

"To make a long story short I finally bought a couple of packages at the nearest drug store and took two or three tablets after each meal and occasionally a tablet between meals, when I felt any feeling of nausea or discomfort."

"I was surprised at the end of the first week to note a marked improvement in my appetite and general health and before the two packages were gone I was certain that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets was going to cure completely and they did not disappoint me. I can eat and sleep and enjoy my coffee and cigar and no one would suppose I had ever known the horrors of dyspepsia."

"Out of friendly curiosity I wrote to the proprietors of the remedy asking for information as to what the tablets contained and they replied that the principal ingredients were aseptic pepsin (government test), malt, dextrine and other natural digestives, which digest food regardless of the condition of the stomach."

The root of the matter is this, the digestive elements contained in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest the food, give the overworked stomach a chance to recuperate and the nerves and whole system to receive the nourishment which can only come from food. Stimulants and nerve tonics never give real strength, they give fictitious strength, invariably followed by reaction. Every drop of blood, every nerve and tissue is manufactured from our daily food, and if you can insure its prompt action and complete digestion by the regular use of so good and wholesome a remedy as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, you will have no need of nerve tonics and sanitariums.

Although Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been in the market only a few years, probably every druggist in the United States, Canada and Great Britain now sells them and considers them the most popular and successful of any preparation for stomach trouble.

spoken a dozen words before he had the close attention of every hearer and throughout his lengthy narration of the familiar story, given new life by an intensely realistic portrayal of the pivotal and dramatic incidents in the career of the great navigator, interest never faltered. A finely modulated voice, remarkable power of description, and a perfect delivery of a scholarly and coherent discourse, made the effort one of the finest that has been heard in Janesville for many months.

Order of Chivalry's Ideal
He said in part: "We are assembled here tonight as members of a great order to do honor to the man who has been chosen as the ideal of an American Order of Chivalry. When as Knights of Columbus we honor the great discoverer, Christopher Columbus, we honor ourselves because as American Catholics, we are the heirs of the faith that inspired him and made possible his great success. The cross that he planted upon the virgin soil of the new world is the same cross before which we bend our knees in veneration. The hope he cherished of planting the faith of Christ among the people of India became the hope and inspiration of a glorious band of missionaries and martyrs, among them Marquette, the patron saint of this western country, and the final fulfillment of that hope is attained in the churches, schools and convents and the twenty millions of Catholic worshippers. When we celebrate the landing day of Columbus we do so as the lawful heirs of the discoverer and explorer. For the land of America is dedicated by the discoverer and explorer as the mission field for the Catholic faith."

Europe in 15th Century
In order to understand the conditions that prevailed in the fifteenth century the speaker asked his hearers to sweep the horizon of Europe, noting the great hordes of barbarians merged into the great movement for the crusades, the fury of the Moslem horde which had overturned the Christian altars on the south, and to the westward the great barrier of the sea—that mysterious storm-swept sea sweeping off in the distance and lost in the maze of some great cataclysm. On this the boldest navigator did not dare to venture. St. Brendan, the great Irish seaman, had sailed away and touched some unknown land, but his charts were lost and his exploits had come to be regarded as legendary.

Seeking Route to India
Toward the close of the 15th century, a young sailor from Genoa conceived the idea that India, the land of pearls, silks, perfumes and spices, could be reached by sailing to the west. Genoa was one of the great commercial cities of Europe and its argosies plentiful on the waters of the Mediterranean. The value of the spices from India before reaching the Mediterranean had to be transported by caravans across Persia and Arabia to reach the Red Sea and the Nile. These routes of travel were watched by bandits who preyed upon the merchants and hostile tribes, who held the caravans as spoils of plunder. The young sailor of Genoa labored with unremitting zeal upon his charts and plans until he had satisfied himself that beyond any doubt India could be reached by sailing to the west.

New Idea Scorned
Then followed a masterly description of the discouraging reception of the new idea—the indifference of the Genoa council and its refusal of aid; the visit to Portugal and the treachery encountered there; the visit to Spain, the single ray of hope that finally came from Father Juan Ponce de la Rabida; the scoffing of the learned astronomers and cosmographers of Salamanca; the seeming triumph in securing ships quickly offset by the refusal of sailors to embark on a sea known from the days of antiquity to be infested with terrible monsters; at last the weighing of anchor and the spreading of the sails to the winds on Aug. 3, 1492. The speaker's descriptions were so vivid at this point that one could almost hear the bells of the old Angelus, tones were wafted faintly to the sailors, whose faces blanched with dread of what might be awaiting them out on the trackless deep.

Story of the Voyage
Fifty days on the waters, strange phenomena which filled the souls of the crew with horror, cloud formations mistaken for land, rage converting itself into frenzy at the adventure or whom even the wise men of Salamanca had declared unworthy of belief, the clenching of the daggers, the closing in of the ships to consume the mutinous plans of the crews, one impetuous spirit still commanding by sheer force of will—and then the discovery! In conclusion: Every age has been marked by the achievements of great men. One has produced a Caesar or a Thomas Aquinas; another a Dante or a Shakespeare; another a Raphael or an Angelo. But war and science and poetry and art cast but a feeble glow beside the radiance that surrounds the age that gave the discoverer of a world—Christopher Columbus.

One Duty Neglected
Henry Cody sang a solo which was received with great applause and responded to an encore. Father J. J. Collins of Fond du Lac was introduced as one who had endeared himself to all knights of Carroll Council and gave a delightful little address in which he gently chided some of his hearers for neglecting certain duties of knighthood which required of them that they champion the fair-sex. The daughters of Eve were going a begging for husbands and here he found bachelors on every side.

Not to Fight Any Creed
Judge A. J. Clarity of Freeport seasoned a good address with a number of anecdotes. He expressed the sentiment that every individual should be rendered the right to worship according to the dictates of his conscience and said that he did not believe in saying that because one belonged to this particular order or church, the people constituting that order or church were the only people. They were as good, but he did not believe in saying they were better than others—at least until they had shown that they were by acts in the many places in which they were called upon for service. The order was not created for the purpose of fighting any creed or organization, but for the purpose of lifting humanity and fallen brothers and saving men for eternal life.

Father Carroll of Watertown in alluding to what Judge Clarity had said, agreed that all creeds must be given credit for what they do and men who believed in them, credit for being good men, but he wished to add that if Catholics were not better than the men of all other creeds, they were not true to the church. For that church had from the beginning taught principles which others either had not the courage or the power to perform. The inviolable pledge of the marriage bond was one of these. From the beginning the church had taught this liberty of which we boast today. The principles our government teaches are the principles that have been taught by the church to which Columbus belonged, and taught before this country was known to geography.

Program in Brief
J. C. Donnelly of Woodstock gave a very entertaining talk; Al Smith sang "I'm going to live until I die" improvising in a manner which made a great hit, some lines which he had forgotten; and Father Downing of Watertown spoke briefly. Father Collins relieved E. H. Ryan as toastmaster and succeeded in getting some excellent responses from: Joseph Scholier, Dan Ryan, Alderman Connell, William Dougherty, G. G. McCarthy, Henry Brazzel, Harry Olson, Dr. M. A. Cunningham, and Dr. Cleary. The festivities closed with the singing of "America," standing, to Prof. Thiele's accompaniment.

CENSUS TAKERS ARE AFTER THEIR MONEY

Have Done Their Work, and Now They Want to Receive Their Pay for It.

From all parts of the state come inquiries as to when the enumerators who took the count of the census are to receive their pay. Thus far none of the census-takers in Rock county have received their pay. In this connection, word comes from Madison that the ready cash of the state is running so low that it has been found necessary to draw upon the state depositories and the probability is that additional extensive drafts will have to be made upon these depositories to meet the running expenditures of the state government. The sources of revenue to the state are not rich at this time of the year, but the expenses are not materially different or lower at this season than at any other time. The various state institutions have to be maintained and the salaries of people in the employ of the state are practically the same for one month as for another. While the cash on hand in the treasury office in the capitol is running low, the situation presents no elements of alarm, as there is a large balance in the general fund, but it is preferred whenever practicable to allow the deposited money to remain in the banks, where it earns interest for the state.

EDWARD BOOKER DIES AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

Passes Away on His Farm in Sauk County Near Reedsburg on Thursday.

Mrs. Mary Woods received word this morning of the sudden death of her father, Edwin Booker, at his farm in Sauk county, near Reedsburg. Mr. Booker has long made Janesville his home, spending his summers in Sauk county. On June 15th last, he and his wife celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary. He leaves to mourn his loss Mrs. Mary Woods and Miss Anna Booker of this city and Mrs. Artie of Augusta. Other near relatives are Chester L. Page and Eva Artie, grandchildren.

Native of England
Edwin Booker was born in Sheffield, England, in 1832, and died at the age of seventy-three years. When a lad of seventeen, in company with his father and sister, he started for America to find a home in the new land. They sailed from Liverpool in the early summer of '49, but they were no more at sea when the ship in which they were voyaging caught fire from an overturned lamp in the sailors' quarters. Two hundred of the four hundred passengers never returned to land alive and the escape of the three Bookers was almost remarkable. The children were separated from their father and it was only by the reckless and brave work of Edwin Booker that his own and his sister's lives were preserved, he succeeding in carrying her by the use of the life line and swimming to one of the rescue boats as it neared the burning vessel. In the autumn of that same year they again started for this country and came directly west to Waukesha county, Wisconsin.

Trained Overland
After the death of his father in 1853, Mr. Booker removed to Milton. He engaged as a teamster and for a number of years was one of those men who before the railroads connected this portion of the state with Milton to the Cream City and on his return trip brought merchandise such as groceries and dry-goods. In 1850 the mother and another sister followed from the British Isles and joined the portion of the family at Waukesha county and for a number of years after their departure from there resided at Milton.

In Union Army
Among the last companies to go from this section of Wisconsin to the civil war was "F" of the sixteenth regiment and in the ranks of this body was Edwin Booker, having enlisted as a volunteer. He saw active service throughout the remaining years of the conflict and was with General Sherman on that far famed march to the sea. At the close of the strife Mr. Booker returned to the Bowler city and after being honorably discharged in July of 1865, moved to Sauk county. Since then Mr. and Mrs. Booker have lived between there and Janesville, spending the summers on a farm, and the winters here.

RIFLE PRACTICE IS CREATING INTEREST

New Departure of the Government in This Respect Has Brought About Changes.

Washington, D. C.—In connection with the work of stimulating interest in military rifle and revolver practice in the army, navy, marine corps and the national guard on the one hand and among civilians on the other which duty has been entrusted by congress to the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice, it is interesting to note that during the present month a series of rifle and revolver matches will be held by the District of Columbia National Guard, open to the naval and military establishments, while the National Capital Rifle and Revolver club will simultaneously conduct similar matches which will be open to the military and to civilians. The National Capital Rifle and Revolver club was recently organized and affiliated with the National Rifle association which cooperates with the National board in encouraging the formation of rifle and revolver clubs among civilians and practice with these weapons.

The matches of the District National Guard will be shot on the National Guard range of the District of Columbia on October 15, 19 and 20. Some are open to teams from the army and navy, marine corps and national guard of all the states; while in other cases the entries are confined to the national guards of New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia, teams from all of which are expected to be in attendance. There will be matches at 200, 300, 400, 500 and one thousand yards with cups and medals (gold and bronze) as prizes. Two of the most interesting matches will be the Belt Revolver match and the Novice Revolver match. The former is open to officers and enlisted men only and the latter to those who have never won a prize in any revolver competition. The revolvers to be used are restricted to the Colt and Smith & Wesson, 28 calibre revolvers of the model established by the ordinance bureau of the War department. An additional prize is offered for the highest score made with the Colt army revolver. In the Senatorial Trophy match the prize is a silver cup presented by twenty-one United States senators together with a gold badge. This is confined to officers and men of the District National guard and the winner is the champion riflemen of the District of Columbia. The Washington Post and the Washington Evening Star have both given cups for these matches and there are many cups and prizes.

The matches of the National Capital Rifle and Revolver club will be held on the afternoons from October 16th to 21st, inclusive. The matches will be shot under the rules of the National Rifle association and the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice. Among the matches is a civilian match at one hundred yards from which members of military organizations and military rifles are barred. Any civilian and any sporting rifle is admitted. The rifle matches will be shot at distances of from 25 to 200 yards, the shorter distances being shot with 22 calibre rifles. Krag rifles and military revolvers which are the national weapons, will be loaned to civilians desiring to compete. There will also be a number of revolver matches, some of them military and some not. This includes an all-comers military revolver match, a members revolver match, any-revolver match, a pocket revolver match and a pistol match.

The executive committee of the club is composed of a number of officers of the National Guard who are expert shots and Major Richard Sylvester, the superintendent of police of the District of Columbia, who is greatly interested in having the police learn to shoot.

One of the great advantages which is expected to accrue to the government from the establishment of ranges throughout the country as proposed by the National board is that opportunities will thus be afforded for the police to practice with revolvers and rifles.

Intent Upon Taking Factory From Janesville to Position Between There and Junction.

(SERIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Milton, Oct. 12.—The Milton and Milton Junction Citizens' Associations met at Odd Fellows hall Wednesday evening and organized with J. C. Carr as chairman and R. W. Clarke as Secretary. Messrs. Winch, Green, Dunn and Wells of the committee that visited the Western Shoe company's factory took the floor and gave it as their opinion that the factory was a paying proposition and that a united effort be made to secure its removal to Milton. After considerable discussion the meeting appointed Messrs. P. M. Green, J. G. Carr and B. H. Wells as a committee to secure stock subscriptions. A similar committee is to be appointed by the Milton Junction association.

"An example easy to be imitated in its faults" is that of a store-advertiser who uses a page of space on one day and a quarter column on another—store expenses, in other directions being as great on one day as the other, and "necessary income" remaining unchanged.

The good people of Milwaukee are considerably exercised over the one man power in the public schools. If the superintendent is held responsible for his teaching force, he should be permitted to select his teachers, without interference by the school board.

The sheriff of Chippewa county will now try his hand at the capturing of John F. Dietz, of Thornapple dam fame. Mr. Dietz has furnished the people of the state with a continuous vaudeville performance for the past two years, and his repertoire does not seem to be exhausted.

It speaks well for the people of the state that the spirit of mob rule was held in check in the case of the accused murderer, Kabot, at Appleton. The man may be guilty of the brutal crime with which he is charged, but the law will deal with him, and the good name of the state preserved.

ENFORCEMENT OF LAW.
When President Tuttle of the Boston & Maine railroad, says the Portland, Maine, Press, commenting on the outcome of the case against the Chicago Beef Packers, said: "There is enough law to meet those railroad difficulties at present on the statute book, and all it needs is to be enforced," he hit the nail about on the head. The trouble has been more with the enforcement of the law than with its lack of effectiveness. No one could ask for more convincing proof of this than the fining of the packers. The suspicion is bound to creep in that the interstate commerce commission might well devote less time and attention to arguing about its dignity and demanding more extended powers and turn its energies instead of applying to the best of its ability the authority already vested in it. Evidently if this had been done the people at large would have had more confidence in the commission and a better understanding of the railroads, while they would have been saved the attack of nerves that has been so persistently aggravated from some quarters.

THE MAD MORIBUND RACE.
The Horseless Age, in its issue of October 11, says some very sensible things about the mania for automobile racing which just now infests the country. The sentiment expressed will be endorsed by everybody except the little coterie of enthusiasts who have gone daffy over the new pastime. The paper says:
"In the first place, racing is dangerous, be it on the road or on the track. It is dangerous not only for those who participate directly in it, but also for those who witness it, or who happen to be near the course while it is taking place; and it is this phase of it that constitutes the stronger argument against it from the danger point of view. Hardly a race has been held upon the roads of this or any other country which has not been attended with death or serious injury, and the long list of casualties which occurred during the track racing season just past is appalling. Automobile racing is both suicidal and murderous—a spectacular and peculiarly offensive way in which to commit suicide, and a horrible way in which to take the lives of others."
"Then general influence of racing is wholly bad. It creates a false conception of the purpose of the automobile. It places the automobile in an unfavorable light before the better part of the public, and so blinds the eyes of the automobile manufacturer who follows it that he fails to see the practical requirements of the car he is trying to build. It is directly responsible for no end of scorching and law breaking upon the public highways, for those who habitually witness it and those who participate in it are soon consumed with the one desire for speed. They rush over the highways, dash madly around corners, risk their necks and those of others, lose all claim to decency, and if they do not, they richly deserve to land in jail."
"Racing encourages the development of freak machines, the use of horse power in quantities beyond all reason, and tends to a departure from rational design. Records show this to be so. The advocates of racing—happily few and rapidly diminishing in number—hold that it aids design, that through it many things are learned that could not be learned so quickly in any other way; but this argument will not hold, for the conditions developed in a race are entirely different from those under which a useful car would be run, and the design most satisfactory in the one case must prove most unsatisfactory in the other."
"The roads are public property, and no one has the moral right to use them for dangerous sport. They belong to the people and not to bodies of men who wish to promote semi-private sporting events upon them. Unfortunately, the State of New York has given local authorities the legal right to set aside for a limited time certain roads or parts of roads for the holding of speed tests and races, but it has not and cannot give the moral right to make a race track of a circuit of public roads for weeks

This Proposition Is Now Up.

Can we longer afford to overlook the fact that we can secure the very best of dental service at about half the rates we have been paying? Dr. Richards of Janesville, the independent dentist, says he would be delighted to have his work (put out at a modest price) compared with work done by others at possibly double his prices. He affirms that the comparison will establish the fact that:

His work is good in every respect.
His work is lasting.
His work is done thoroughly.
His work is substantial, and, in fact, not excelled by that of any other local dentist.

In addition to the reasonableness of his prices he gives close attention to painless work. Now see what you get by having him do your dental work—

THOROUGH WORK—with an ABSENCE OF PAIN—at a MODEST PRICE.

An umbrella with combination cover instead of all silk is much more serviceable. Merchants of repute guarantee the covers for a year, if of combination quality.

The handies shown in the Fall lines are mostly pearl with gold plated mountings—some solid silver trimmings are used. The swell handle is the all gold, chased or the heavy embossed silver in grey finish. Colors are pusses for the present—blacks and black with a bit of white border are the correct thing.

Gentlemen use the buck and horn handles—the 27- and 28-inch are used the most.

BASE BALL TALK IS INTERESTING

PRES. POWERS FEELS CERTAIN JANESVILLE WILL HAVE TEAM.

LOOKS FOR GOOD GROUNDS

Madison Is Now Organized, Leaving But Fond du Lac to Decide—Appleton Certain.

President John T. Powers of the Wisconsin State League is sure from his talk with prominent merchants and business men that Janesville wants a baseball team next year in the Wisconsin league. It is not quite a year ago that Mr. Powers began his work of organizing a state baseball league. Janesville was on the original list of cities to be a member of an eight-city league. In fact, over twelve hundred dollars was subscribed then and they say that they are willing to repeat their subscriptions. The next matter to be considered is a manager and a ball park.

Looks Over Sites
Mr. Powers spent this morning looking over different sites. Two are under consideration. Both are on the street car lines, one on the interurban and one on the city line. In speaking of the prospects Mr. Powers says: "In the six towns where we had teams this past year the baseball enthusiasm is growing instead of diminishing. The last of the season showed this in increased attendance. The league lost money last year, owing to open dates and mistakes in making jumps and other matters which will be remedied this year. With Appleton, Janesville, Madison and Fond du Lac in the league each team will play sixty-five games at their home grounds during the season."

Good Advertiser
A baseball team is a good advertisement for a city. Janesville should be able to pick out a first-class team of only home players were used. Business men are apparently anxious to have Janesville represented in the league and it is probable that if the right management is secured it would be a success. Mr. Powers promised much last year when he first talked baseball here and has thus far made good all his statements.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC IS BECOMING HEAVY

Both Railroads Add Switch Engine with Crew to Their Yard Forces.

Freight traffic, particularly between local points in southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois, has suddenly become extremely heavy. A week ago little was being done outside of the ordinary run of business, but the best harvest and the cool weather seem to have worked together for the increase. Both the North-Western and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul companies now have three switch-engines, each with a full crew, at work in the local yards. The latter added their third locomotive yesterday and the former put their extra one in service this morning. Last night the Janesville yards of the North-Western were congested and it was with difficulty that the main track was kept open for passenger trains. Seventy-five, carloads of beet helped in the blocking.

OLD SORES SAP THE VITALITY AND UNDERMINE THE HEALTH

Old Sores that refuse to heal are a constant menace to health. They sap the vitality and undermine the constitution by draining the system of its very life fluids, and those afflicted with one of these ulcers grow despondent and almost desperate as one treatment after another fails. They patiently apply salves, washes, plasters, etc., but in spite of all these the sores refuse to heal and eat deeper into the surrounding flesh, destroying the tissues and growing to be a festering, inflamed and angry mass. The source of the trouble is in the blood. This vital fluid is filled with impurities and poisons which are constantly being discharged into the sore or ulcer, making it impossible for the place to heal. It will not do to depend on external applications for a cure, because they do not reach the real cause, and valuable time is lost experimenting with such treatment; the most they can do is keep the ulcer clean. Any sore that will not heal is dangerous, for the reason that it may have the deadly germs of Cancer behind it. A cure can be brought about only through a remedy that can change the quality of the blood, and this is what S. S. S. does. It goes to the very bottom of the trouble, drives out the poisons and germs with which it is filled, and purifies and builds up the entire circulation. By the use of S. S. S., the sore is supplied with new, rich blood which corrects the trouble, soon stops the discharge, and allows the place to heal naturally and permanently. S. S. S. also reinvigorates the entire system, and where the constitution has been depleted or broken down it quickly builds it up and restores perfect health. Write for our special book on sores and ulcers, and any medical advice you are in need of; no charge for either.

THE YOKE

A Romance of the Days When the Lord Redeemed the Children of Israel From the Bondage of Egypt
By Elizabeth Miller

Copyright, 1904, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

CHAPTER XXXI. WHOM THE LADY MIRIAM SENT.

OF the ensuing day Kenekenes had no very distinct memory. Very fair and beautiful one recollection remained—a recollection of another figure on the eminence, and by the flash of white upthrown arms and the blowing of a somber cloud of hair this time it was a woman.

Thereafter Israel moved inland and down the coast some distance, for the sea began to surrender its dead. Of the stir and method of the removal he did not remember, but of the encampment and the reassembling of the tribes he recalled several incidents. He was numb and sleep heavy beyond words, and while leaning in a semi-conscious condition against some household goods he was discovered by the owner, who was none other than the friendly son of Judah, his assistant in his search for Rachel in the wilderness. The man's honest joy over Kenekenes' safety was good to look upon. A few words of explanation concerning his very apparent exhaustion were fruitful of some comfort to the young Egyptian. The Hebrew's wife had a motherly heart, and the weary face of the comely youth touched it. Therefore she brought him bread and wine and made him a place in the shadow of her tent furnishings where he might sleep till what time the family shelter could be raised.

But Kenekenes did not rest. He fell asleep only to dream of Rachel and awake asking himself why he had abandoned the search for her, why he had left Egypt without her and why he had not gone to Moses at once for aid to further his seeking through Israel.

He stepped forth directly in the path of a party of women. He moved aside to give them room and, glancing at the foremost, recognized her immediately as the Lady Miriam. She stopped and looked at him.

"Thou art he who found Jehovah in Egypt?" she asked.

He bowed in assent.

"Thy faith is entire," she commented. "Also have I cause to remember thee. Thou didst display a courteous spirit in Tape a year ago."

"Thou hast repaid me with the flattery of thy remembrance, Lady Miriam," he replied.

"Thy speech publishes thee as noble," she went on calmly. "Thy name?"

"Kenekenes, the son of Menatu, the merchant."

Her lips parted suddenly, and her eyes glaucated.

"See yonder tent," she said, indicating a pavilion of new cloth reared not far from the quarters of Moses. "Repair thither and await till I send to thee."

Kenekenes turned toward the tent. A Hebrew at the entrance lifted the side without a word and signed him to enter.

The interior was not yet fully furnished. A rug of Memphis weave covered the sand, and a taboret was placed in the center.

Presently the serving man entered with a laver of sea water and an Israelite robe fringed and bound at the selvage with blue. With the dispatch and adroitness of one long used to personal service he attended the young Egyptian and dressed him in the stately garments of his own people. When his service was complete he took up the bowl and castoff dress and went forth.

After a time he brought in a couch-like divan, dressed it with fringed linen and strewn it with cushions. Next he suspended a cluster of lamps from the center pole, set a tiny inlaid table close to the couch and on the table put a bottle of wine and a beaker and brought last a heap of fine rugs and coverings, which he laid in one corner. The tent was furnished, and nobly.

The man bowed before Kenekenes, awaiting the Egyptian's further pleasure, but at a sign from the young man bowed again and retired.

Presently some one entered behind him. He arose and turned. Before him was the most welcome picture his bereaved eyes could have looked upon. His visitor was all in shimmering white and wore no ornament except a collar of golden rings. What need of further adornment when she was nurtured and crowned with a glory of golden hair? Except that the face was marble white and the eyes dark and large with quiet sorrow, it was the same divinely beautiful Rachel.

It may have been that he was beyond the recuperative influence of sudden joy or that the unexpected restoration of his love might have swept away his forces had he been in full strength, but whatever the cause Kenekenes sank to his knees and forward into the eager arms flung out to receive him. Her cry of great joy seemed to come to him from afar.

"Kenekenes! Oh, my love! Not dead; not dead!"

Then it was he learned that she had despaired, grieving beyond any comfort, for she had counted him with the firstborn of Egypt. And even though thoughts came to him but slowly now he said to himself:

"Praise God, I did not think of it, or I had gone distracted with her trouble."

How rich woman love is in solicitude and ministering resource! It made Rachel strong enough to raise him and, having led him back to the divan, gently to lay him down among the cushions. The wine was at her hand, and she filled the beaker and held it while he drank. Then she kissed him and, hiding her face in his breast, wept soft tears. And, though he held her very close and had in his heart a great longing to soothe her, he could not speak.

"After a little she spoke."

"I had not dreamed that there was such artifice in Miriam. She told me of a nobleman that had served God in Israel and was in need of comfort in his tent. But she bridled her tongue and governed her expression so cunningly that I did not dream the hero was mine—mine!"

Then on a sudden she disengaged herself from his arms and, gaining her feet, cried out with her hands over her blushing face:

"And now I know why she and Hur—oh, I know why they came with me and brought me to the tent!"

"Nay, now; may I not guess also?"

Kenekenes laughed, though a little puzzled over her evident confusion. "They had a mind to peep and spy upon our lovemaking. Perchance they are waiting for this instant. Come hither and let us not disappoint them."

She dropped her hands and looked at him with flaming cheeks and smiling eyes. There was more in her look than he could fathom, but he did not puzzle longer when she came back to her place and hid her face away from him.

It is the love of ripe years that makes the lips of lovers silent. But Kenekenes and Rachel were very young and wholly demonstrative, and they had need of many words to supplement the testimony of carresses. They had much to tell, and they left no avowed unmade.

But at last Kenekenes' voice wearied, and Rachel noted it. So in her pretty authoritative way she stroked his lashes down and bade him sleep. When she removed her hands and clasped them above his head, his eyes did not open.

As she bent over him she noted with a great sweep of tenderness how young he was. In all her relations with Kenekenes she had seen him in the manliest roles. She had depended upon him, looked up to him, and had felt secure in his protection. Now she contemplated a face from which content had erased the mature lines that care had drawn. The curve of his lips, the length of the drooping lashes, the roundness of cheek and the softness of throat were youthful—boyish. With this enlightenment her love for him experienced a transfiguration. She seemed to grow older than he; the maternal element leaped to the fore; their positions were instantly reversed. It was hers to care for him.

After a long time his arms relaxed about her, and she undid them and disposed them in easy position. Lifting the fillet from his brow, she smoothed out the mark it had made and settled the cushions more softly under his head. From the heap of coverings she took the simplest and the softest and spread it over him. Remembering that the wind from the sea blew shrewdly at night, she laid rugs about the edges of the tent, which fluttered in the breeze, and returned again to his side.

After another space of rapt contemplation of his unconscious face she went forth and drew the entrance together behind her.

The next daybreak was the happiest Israel had known in a hundred years. Egypt, overthrown and humbled, was behind them; God was with them, and Canaan was just ahead—perhaps only beyond the horizon. Few but would have laughed at the glory of Babylon, Assyria and the great powers.

For had it not been promised that out of Israel nations should be made and kings should come?

The march was to be taken up immediately, and in the cool of the morning the host was ready to advance.

Rachel had not permitted herself to be seen until the tent of Miriam was struck. She knew that Kenekenes was waiting for her, and with the delightful inconsistency of maidenhood she dreaded while she longed to meet her beloved again. And when the moment arrived she slipped across the open space to the camel that was to bear her into Canaan, but in the shadow of the faithful creature Kenekenes overtook her and folded her in his arms.

"A blessing on thee, my sweet! And I am blessed in having thee once more."

"Didst thou sleep well?" she asked.

"Most industriously, since I made up what I lost and overlapped a little. And yet I was abroad at dawn prowling about thy tent lest thou shouldst flee me once again. Rachel!"—his voice sobered, and his face grew serious—

"Rachel, wilt thou wed me this day?"

"If it were only 'aye' or 'nay' to be said I should have said it long ago," she answered, with averted eyes, "but there are many things that thou shouldst know, Kenekenes, before thou demandest the answer from me."

"Name them, Rachel," he said submissively, "but let me say this first: Mine eyes are not mystic, but most truthfully can I tell this moment which of us twain will rule over my tent."

"And thou art ready for the tent and shepherd life of Israel?" she asked gravely, but before he could answer she went on:

PAPER MEN DEFY THE COURT

Witnesses Sentenced for Contempt in St. Paul Investigation.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 12.—C. J. McNair, E. F. Nelson and A. S. Bossard, who were recently ordered by Judge Vandever to answer certain questions which might be asked of them and to produce the books of their respective paper mills before Special Examiner Taylor, of the United States district court, refused to comply with the order and were adjudged in contempt of court. Judge Vandever sentenced each of the contumacious witnesses to pay a fine of $150 and to be confined in the county jail until purge of an appeal to the supreme court of the United States was given and five days were allowed the defendants' attorney in which to prepare a writ of error and perfect the appeal. This act as a stay of sentence and the respondents were released on bail pending the decision of the supreme court.

PLACE FOR FRANCIS B. LOOMIS

To Be Confidential Adviser of Secretary of State and President.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Francis B. Loomis, retired assistant secretary of state, will be given another appointment under the State Department. It was reported that he would retire to private life, but it is learned that he will be made a confidential adviser to the Secretary of State and the President, taking the place formerly filled by John A. Kasson, who, with a salary of $10,000 a year, enjoyed the title of special commissioner plenipotentiary under the tariff act. Mr. Kasson, who is an Iowa and an expert in tariff matters, was employed in the negotiation of reciprocity treaties, but retired when it was demonstrated that congress would not approve the treaties. It has not developed whether Mr. Loomis will undertake a new series of reciprocity treaties or will be confined to an arrangement with Germany. It is probable that he will discharge other duties of a confidential nature in connection with the diplomatic service.

Woman's Kidney Troubles

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is Especially Successful in Curing This Fatal Disease.

Mrs. J. W. Lang and Mrs. S. Frake

Of all the diseases known, with which women are afflicted, kidney disease is the most fatal. In fact, unless early and correct treatment is applied, the weary patient seldom survives.

Being fully aware of this, Mrs. Pinkham, early in her career, gave exhaustive study to the subject, and in producing her great remedy for woman's ills—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—was careful to see that it contained the correct combination of herbs which was sure to control that fatal disease, woman's kidney troubles. The Vegetable Compound acts in harmony with the laws that govern the entire female system, and while there are many so-called remedies for kidney troubles, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the only one especially prepared for women, and thousands have been cured of serious kidney derangements by it. Derangements of the female organs quickly affect the kidneys, and when a woman has such symptoms as pain or weight in the loins, backache, bearing down pains, urine too frequent, scanty or high colored, producing scalding or burning, or deposits like brick dust in it; unusual thirst, swelling of hands and feet, swelling under the eyes or sharp pains in the back running down the inside of her groin, she may be sure her kidneys are affected and should lose no time in combating the disease with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the woman's remedy for woman's ills.

The following letters show how marvelously successful it is.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; a Woman's Remedy for Woman's ills.

Mrs. Samuel Frake, of Prospect Plains, N. J., writes:

"I cannot thank you enough for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. When I first wrote to you I had suffered for years with what the doctor called kidney trouble and congestion of the womb. My back ached dreadfully all the time, and I suffered so with that bearing-down feeling I could hardly walk across the room. I did not get any better, so decided to stop doctoring with my physician and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am thankful to say it has entirely cured me. I do all my own work, have no more backache and all the bad symptoms have disappeared. I cannot praise your medicine enough, and would advise all women suffering with kidney trouble to try it."

Mrs. J. W. Lang, of 626 Third Avenue, New York, writes:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham—

I have been a great sufferer with kidney trouble. My back ached all the time and I was discouraged. I heard that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would cure kidney disease, and I began to take it, and it has cured me when every thing else had failed. I have recommended it to lots of people and they all praise it very highly."

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation.

Women suffering from kidney trouble, or any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Out of the great volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than likely she has the very knowledge that will help your case. Her advice is free and always helpful.

Who among us doesn't like to be well-dressed?

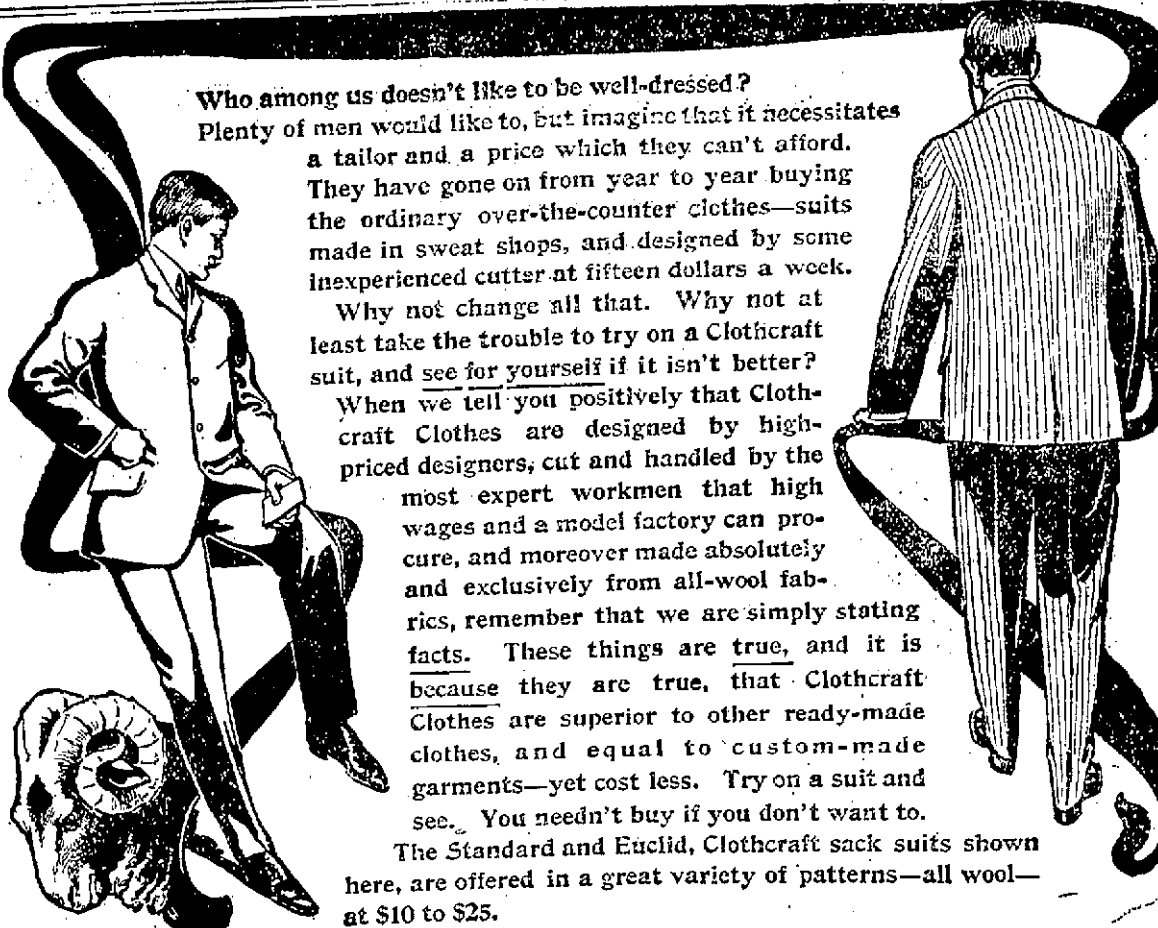

Plenty of men would like to, but imagine that it necessitates a tailor and a price which they can't afford.

They have gone on from year to year buying the ordinary over-the-counter clothes—suits made in sweat shops, and designed by some inexperienced cutter at fifteen dollars a week.

Why not change all that. Why not at least take the trouble to try on a Clothcraft suit, and see for yourself if it isn't better?

When we tell you positively that Clothcraft Clothes are designed by high-priced designers, cut and handled by the most expert workmen that high wages and a model factory can procure, and moreover made absolutely and exclusively from all-wool fabrics, remember that we are simply stating facts. These things are true, and it is because they are true, that Clothcraft Clothes are superior to other ready-made clothes, and equal to custom-made garments—yet cost less. Try on a suit and see. You needn't buy if you don't want to.

The Standard and Euclid, Clothcraft sack suits shown here, are offered in a great variety of patterns—all wool—at $10 to $25.

ADMIRAL SAYS NAVAL OFFICERS ARE TOO OLD

Dewey Gives Warning That Disaster
Will Come Unless Younger Men
Are Put in Command.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Admiral Geo. Dewey declares that the officers of the American navy above the rank of lieutenant are, as a rule, too old for the grades they occupy. The admiral continued:

"The nation will assuredly meet with disaster in a naval war unless younger men are given command of the ships in our navy.

"Continuing the older men in command of the ships of our navy would be a certain menace to the country. In the event of war we would see, in all probability, a repetition of the deplorable events which occurred in the first year or two of the civil war.

"Old men, for the most part, were in command of the federal ships when hostilities between the north and south broke out. The officers then were older, by the way, than those who are now in command in our navy.

"Disaster followed disaster, and it was not until younger men were placed in command of our fighting vessels that victories succeeded reverses. And the change in the fortunes of war in the water did not come until congress had passed the act which placed naval officers who had reached the age of 62 years on the retired list.

"In the recent war in the far east all of the officers in the Japanese navy, from the admiral down, were in the prime of life."

HUSBANDS REGISTER A PROTEST March in Body to Where Women Meet and Make Complaint.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 12.—Driven to desperation by the numerous social functions which their wives attend, 200 husbands of Williamsport adopted a novel way of protesting against its further continuance. After discussing the situation and explaining that they were being neglected at home, their dinners late, their business engagements interfered with and their purses depleted they marched in a body to houses where their wives were being entertained and protested publicly. Some of the women admitted that there were grounds for complaint and one euphoric club disbanded on the spot. Other wives were less quiescent, but the husbands believe that they have given an effective check to social functions and that the women will be more moderate in the future.
